How London Bridge made London a World City

For 2,000 years London Bridge has been fundamental to the development of London into the world city that it is today.

I have been involved for over twenty years with a small educational charity, the London Bridge Museum & Educational Trust, which is committed to telling this story.

I will talk a little about the history of the Bridge – or rather the many bridges that have been built on this site – and try to explain how much this great City owes to the Roman engineers who elected to cross the river where they did.

There is a small charge for this talk of £5 per person, which will be entirely devoted to the London Bridge Museum & Educational Trust.
